Read the following prose passage and answer the questions : (Room No 16)

It is an old saying that knowledge is power. Education is an instrument which imparts knowledge and therefore indirectly controls powers. Therefore, ever since the dawn of civilization, persons in power have always tried to supervise or control education. During the Christian Era, the Church controlled the institutions of education and spread among the people the teaching of the Bible. It taught the poor people to earn their bread with the sweat of their brow, while the priest and the landlords lived in luxury. During the Renaissance, education passed from the clutches of the priest into the hands of the prince and monarchs. Thus, under the control of monarchs education began to preach that the king can do no wrong. With the advent of the industrial revolution, education took a different turn. It now no longer remained the privilege of the baron class, but was thrown open to the new merchant class of the society.

(A) Answer the following questions in brief: (4x2 =8)

1. How does education control power?
2. What were people taught in the Christian Era?
3. What happened during the Renaissance?
4. What happened after the industrial revolution?

(B) Write ' T ' for true and ' F ' for false statements : 6

1. The prince and monarchs took hold of education during the Renaissance.
2. Education controls power.
3. The Bible taught people to earn bread with sweat of their brow.
4. Education is now in the clutches of the baron class.
5. The priest and the landlords lived in luxury in the past.
6. Ever since the dawn of civilization, persons in power have always tried to free education.
